Promotes a Healthier Workplace

Flu season is beginning to slow down, but there are still germs, dirt and grime lingering in your workplace. Doing a thorough cleaning and disinfecting of all surfaces, high frequency touch points and bathrooms will remove the unwanted germs and dirt.

You Get Areas That Are Rarely Cleaned

We know your walls, furniture and ceiling aren't getting cleaned every night. Spring is a great time to address these areas that need to be cleaned and disinfected.

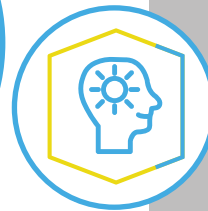

It's Good For Your Bottom Line

If your floors last longer, than it stands to reason your bottom line will be positively impacted by a good spring cleaning. Make your floors and budget go farther.

Creates a Better Work Environment

After a deep cleaning and disinfecting, you will take pride in how the workplace looks with a new shine. Cleaning of workspaces and common areas will help with productivity.

Your Floors Will Thank You

Your floors take a lot of abuse through the winter months. Salt, sand, dirt, moisture and mud can leave long lasting damage if not treated properly – no matter the surface. Whether it is carpet extraction to get the grime from the base of the fibers or a strip and wax, this will go a long way in ensuring your floors stay looking great for years to come.
